BERNHARDT IN FILM GREETED BY CROWDS

Seen in First Dramatic Performance Since Severe III ness and Surgical Operation

To those theatergoers who do not COURT AS CAMERA CLICKED understand the French language, Sarah Pernhardt in motion pictures means as much as Sarah Bernhardt in person. This partly accounts for the unusual audience which greeted the French actress' appearance at the Casino Treyesterday in "Jeanne Pore," a motion picture play that was produced after Mme. Bernhardt had recovered from the operation which has made permanent, it is said, her retirement from

The greatest care has been taken by the producer of the picture, which is being shown in this country under the auspices of the Universal Company, to cover up any defect in walking that might betray the physical condition of the great actress.

The film play clearly demonstrates that at seventy Sarah Bernhardt is still a consummate artist and is able to sway a theater full of people by her ability to make them feel the effect of the emotions she most adequately portrays.

the emotions she most adequately por-iravs.

"Jeanne Dore" is a tense type of drama. The heroine is the wife of a gambler who kills himself after gram-bling away his fortune. His son mar-ries an adventuress and in desperate need of money commits murder.

The suffering of the wife and the mother are the big features of the piece and Mme. Hernhardt is fully equal to the task of showing them. Haymond Bernard, Mme. Ecylor, and Mme. Costa, of the supporting caste, seem to be keenly alive to the possibilities of their roles.

Thursday, Friday, and Saturday Mary Pickford will be seen in "Tess of the Storm Country."

"A Woman's Power," presented by the World Film Corporation today and comorrow at Crandall's, serves to introduce Molly King as a motion picture star. Miss King is known to the theatrical world as a Winter Garden favorite, and one of the attractions of the Ziegfeld Follies. She has an unusual play, and is presented with an excellent cast.

The important feature of the week's program is the presentation Wednesday and Thursday of D. W. Griffith's photoplay production of Paul Armstrong's melodrama. "The Escape." Mr. Griffith personally superintended the production of this play, which he regards as one of his most important achievements. The cast includes Blanche Sweet, Mae Marsh, Robert Harron, Owen Moore, Ralph Lewis, and other well-known Griffith players.

Friday and Saturday Alice Brady, who had the distinction of opening the week's program yesterday in a return engagement of "The Ballet Girl," will be seen for the first time in "The Woman in 47." This play has been prepared especially for Miss Brady, and is supposed to give her special opportunities.

Thursday William Shay and Claire Whitney will be seen in the Fix production of "The Rulling Passion." The big feature of the week to many Washingtonians will be the appearance of Florence La Badle in the Thamhouser feature, "The Five Faults of Flo," which has much comedy in addition to its tense dramatic situations. Mary Pickford in "Little Pal" will close the week's program Saturday.

EMPRESS.

The newest starring vehicle for William Farnum, with Dorothy Bernard as the leading woman, "Fighting Blood," introduces the popular pair in a typical Fox production at the Empress this week. The strong young man who goes through all sorts of unfortunate experiences in defense of his storybook virtues, is the kind of a character that Mr. Farnum's managers feel he must be pro-vided with, and the kind his friends among the patrons of the films have heen accustomed to seeing him play.

In "Fighting Blood" he gives the character the Farnum touch which has made him a popular film figure.

In the early part of the play Miss Bernard has opportunity to present the protty, wholesome and thoroughly human girlish character in which her Washington admirers believe she has few equals on the stage. Later the exigencies of the drama call for her to play the sad wife. "Fighting Blood" will be shown again today and tomorrow

Blood" will be shown again today and tomorrow.
Wednesday Theda Bara will be seen in "The Serpent." Thursday, Maude Gilbert, formerly leading woman of the Poli Players, will be presented in "A Fool's Revenge." As Miss Gilbert has appeared before Washington audiences expressly for the purpose of explaining her motion picture work this picture will be doubly interesting.

"The Ruling Fassion, to be presented Fraiav, will introduce William Shay and Claire Whitney again, and Saturday Nance O'Neil will og seen in "The Witch."

Real Romance of Reel Romance $1,400 RAISED HERE NAVY LEAGUE WOMEN Is Farrar-Telegen Love Story BY MRS. PANKHURST TO MEET NEXT WEEK

Couple Met for First Time While Both Were Acting for the Pictures.

Conference About Photoplay Brought Stars Together and Blind God Shot His Arrow.

Real romance rather than reel romance has broken into the motion picture studio at last, and the marriage of Geraldine Farrar, the operatic star, and Lou-Telegen, the actor, in New York recently, is the result!

The story of the woolng and court-

result!

The story of the wooing and courtship of the heroine and hero of the Farrar-Telegen romance, to the accompaniment of the click of the camera and the hoarse hoots of the film director, is the very first studio
story of the kind that has occurred
among the big stars who have gone into the film world.

The meeting of Miss Farrar with Mr. Teigren took place in a motion picture studio. Their courtship was in and around the studio. The most matter-of-fract thing in the whole afiair is Calt the matricge took place in Miss Farrar's home in New York.

Even if the story were not true,
it would make a good first-page
spread in the theatrical papers, because of the ingenuity of the press agent in working it out. But, as a matter of fact, the story is really true. And the facts are even more romantic than the average press agent could develop—even if he were another Toady Hamilton.

The romance began last summer
when Miss Farrar and Mr. Tellegen
were at the studios of the Lasky Company in California. Miss Farrar,
during her ten weeks at the studios,
made three photoplay productions.
They were "Carmen" and "Temptation," in both of which she has been seen in Washington, and "Maria Rosa," a picturization of a famous Spanish play in which Miss Farrar appears in the role of a peagant 2irl.

It happened as the work was planned by Cecil B. DeMille, that "Maria Rosa" was made first. Tellegen, who had arrived at the studio
several weeks before Miss Farrar, to appear in "The Explorer" and
"The Unknown," had made his debut in America as the dramatic star
in "Maria Rosa" in New York two years before.

During the conference between Miss Farrar and Mr. De Mille for

years before.

During the conference between Miss Farrar and Mr. De Mille for "Maria Rosa" and how it should be produced, Tellegen volunteered suggestions, the result of his experience in the spoken version of the great play. It was in cois conference, which lasted until the small hours in the morning, that the romance of Miss Farrar and Lou-Tellegen ve-

Miss Farrar and Lou-letter grid gan.

Miss Farrar is an American girl. She was born in Melrose, Mass., and has achieved greater success on the operatic stage than any American girl before her time. Her father, Sidney Farrar, in his day, was one of the most popular famous baseball players in America. Mr. Telegen is a native of Holland, and came to this country as leading man with Sarah Bernhardt.
